

Executive Vice President

Andy Johanni

Executive Vice President Andy Johanni provides visionary leadership to his division and has bottom-line responsibility for construction at Equity. Under Andy's leadership the division has enjoyed annual double-digit volume growth. This growth has been fueled by successfully assembling a highly qualified team of managers and support personnel, as well as improving systems and processing.

While he has doubled the size of the division, there have been even more impressive gains in individual project management capacity. Since joining Equity in 2001 the division has prosecuted many diverse construction projects. In addition to general office and retail experience, Andy has extensive career experience with hospital and medical building construction. This has greatly helped Equity to grow its healthcare construction volume. Andy has been a key leader of Equity's expansion to new markets and more challenging projects.

Before joining Equity in June 2001, Andy worked for Turner Construction in Columbus, Ohio. At Turner, Andy was involved in several large-scale projects, including Miranova Office Building and Residential Tower, IBM Data Center, The Ohio State University Stadium Renovation, Nationwide Arena, Children's Hospital Ambulatory Care Building and Mount Carmel East Surgery Tower and Renovations. He has more than 20 years of experience in the construction industry.

Andy graduated from Princeton University with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Civil Engineering. While at Princeton, he lettered in football 1985-1987. He is an active member of the St. Thomas Moore Newman Center, The Columbus Downtown Rotary Club, Chairman of the Princeton University Alumni Schools Committee and the father of five children.
